DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 1 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding claim 1, the phrase "such as" renders the claim indefinite because it is unclear whether the limitations following the phrase are part of the claimed invention. See MPEP § 2173.05(d).

Furthermore, claim 1 recites:

"wherein memberships are sold by units, each membership unit entitling a member who has purchased said membership unit to a fixed number of days during said membership period that said member may exclusively use a particular one of said boats, said fixed number of days being identical for each of said membership units, and wherein said particular one of said boats to be used during said membership period by said member is to be selected by said member for said membership period; and limiting the number of said membership units for which said particular one of said boats for said membership period may be selected such that the combined fixed number of days for all of said membership units for which said particular one of said boats is selected is shorter than said membership period. ", which is confusing. MPEP 2106 (C) states: "Language that suggests or makes optional but does not require steps to be performed or does not limit a claim to a particular structure does not limit the scope of a claim or claim limitation. The following are examples of language that may raise a question as to the limiting effect of the language in a claim:

- (A) statements of intended use or field of use,
- (B) "adapted to" or "adapted for" clauses,
- (C) "wherein" clauses, or
- (D) "whereby" clauses."

Art Unit: 3628

Therefore, so as the limitations followed by the term "wherein" are not positively claimed, it is not clear should said limitations be given patentable weight.

Furthermore, the term "may" implies a potential capability, not an actual method step.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by an Internet printout of <http://WWW.sailtime.com> (Sailtime).

Sailtime licensing Group LLC, which appears to be established in 2001 (see page 1, second paragraph), discloses a method of operating a boat partnership or club, comprising:

maintaining a plurality of boats for use by members of said boat club;
selling memberships in said boat club covering a membership period designated by said boat club; wherein memberships are sold by units, each membership unit entitling a member who has purchased said membership unit to a fixed number of days during said membership period that said member may exclusively use a particular one of said boats, said fixed number of days being identical for each of said membership units, and wherein said particular one of said boats to be used during said membership period by said member is to be selected by said member for said membership period; and limiting the number of said membership units for which said particular one of said boats for said

Art Unit: 3628

membership period may be selected such that the combined fixed number of days for all of said membership units for which said particular one of said boats is selected is shorter than said membership period (See pages 1-27 of the Website printout, or pages 1-12 of an enlarged text copy provided for Applicant convenience).
